Thanksgiving Prayer

We are thankful today for many things, O God: for our families and friends, our comfortable homes, the education provided for us, the work we are allowed to do, the convenience of food and goods, the ease of transportation, the blessing of an advanced medical system, the safety of our surroundings, and the comfort of our faith in all difficult and trying situations. Forgive us, we pray, for the days when we forget to be grateful, and go on our way as if all these things were our natural right and had not come about by the sensitivity and effort and sacrifice of others. We pray for all those around this globe who do not have as much as we for which to be thankful—those who are hungry or poor; those who lack medical care; those who have AIDS or other terrible diseases; those who are spending Thanksgiving in hospitals or prisons or far away from their families; and those who are part of the communion of Christ and his church. Help us, out of our bounty, to learn to share what we have with them and to make this world more like your kingdom of love and light. Through Jesus our Lord. Amen
